A Short Catechism on Freedom.

The New York Times believes "in all sincerity" that, as it says:

The last honest ground of anti-imperialist opposition crumbles and is swept away by the president's declaration that "it is our purpose to establish in the Philippines a government suitable to the wants and conditions of the inhabitants and to prepare them for self-government and to give them self-government when they are ready for it and as rapidly as they are ready for it."

As Mr. McKinley will not, of course, answer questions designed to uncover his meaning and to discover his policy, perhaps our contemporary will furnish the answers to a short catechism:

1. What is the "self-government" of a people and what does Mr.
McKinley mean by this term?

2. Who is the rightful judge as to what sort of government is "suitable to the wants and conditions" of the inhabitants of the Philippines? If Mr. McKinley or the congress of the United States is that judge what is the source and nature of their authority?

3. Are the inhabitants of those islands, or are they not, endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, among which are "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?"

4. If they have no such natural or divine endowments, have they any rights except such as we may see fit to grant them? Have whites and blacks a right to govern themselves, but not browns?

5. If, as congress proclaimed in declaring war upon Spain, the people of Cuba "are and of right ought to be free and independent," why are not the Filipinos in the same category?

Mr. McKinley says that "Freedom is a rock upon which the republican party was founded" and that "Liberty is the great republican doctrine." These are fine words, but just what is the republican definition and application of Freedom and Liberty as applied to the inhabitants of the Philippines?

7. Are government without consent and taxation without representation "tyranny when applied to us, but philanthropy when applied by us?"

Answers to these questions, made "in all sincerity," would, we believe, tend to elucidate "the paramount issue," which Mr. McKin-ley's new phrases tend somewhat to obscure.

To borrow a Bible quotation, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Paraphrasing Lincoln's declaration, "I may add that this nation cannot endure half republic and half colony—half free and half vassal." Our form of government, our traditions, our present interests and our future welfare, all forbid our entering upon a career of conquest.—W. J. Bryan.

Our republican friends virtuously accuse Mr. Bryan of being an imperialist. They charge that he dominates his party. This is a crime which at least cannot be laid at the door of the major. He lives but to obey—the trusts.

The major's hurry to haul down the flag in China suggests that there are more traitors in this country than Edward Atkinson.
